Merely stating that we need to prioritize equity and climate action in our service to the community does not guarantee successful outcomes. Achieving these outcomes requires effectively integrating an understanding of equity and climate impacts across the organization. To ensure that our service is equitable, staff throughout local government must be able to assess the probable implications on different groups in our community of any given initiative.

This presentation will cover:
 - How the Office of Equity & Inclusion (OEI) defines equity as both a concept and action
 - Defining the Climate Program (mitigation, resilience) + biodiversity
